Rep. Tracy Will Not Offer Legislative Scholarships in Year 201

In a very difficult budget year, Rep. Jil Tracy has chosen to forego offering General Assembly Legislative scholarships. In a normal year, legislators are allowed to offer eight General Assembly scholarships tuition waivers. This year, due to the intense budget deficit and its toll on higher education funding, Rep Tracy will not offer these scholarships. Tracy has enjoyed offering these scholarships in the past to worthy students via an independent selection committee. However, in these critical budget times, "I believe that as a steward of taxpayer money, I cannot offer these scholarships this year," stated Tracy. "I hope to be able to reinstate these scholarships in future years." Says Tracy.
